SENATOR MORGAN'S APPEAU FOR THE COMPETITOR PRISONERS.

He Shows that the President to Bound by Statute to Demand Their Ecleane, and to Send All the Facts Regarding Their Capture and Trial to Congress, WASHINGTON, June 5 .- The resolution of fered on Tuesday last by Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.), requiring the President of the United States to communicate to the Senate all the facts and proceedings relative to the trial by court martial, sentence, and imprisonment of citizens of the United States who were captured on board the American vessel Competitor, in Cuban waters, was taken up in the Senate to-day and its adoption urged by Mr. Morgan. The resolution omitted the usual phrase, "if not incompatible with the public interest," and was based upon section 2,001 of the Revised Statutes, which makes it the duty of the President, whenever any citizen of the United States has been unjustly deprived of his liberty by any foreign Government, to demand forthwith the reasons of such imprisonment, to demand the release of such citizen if his imprisonment is wrongful, to use such means, not amounting to acts of war, as he may think necessary and proper to effectuate the release, and to communicate all the facts and proceedings to Congress as soon as practicable.

Mr. Morgan said that the Competitor incldent occurred in the middle of May, but the Senate had not yet had the slightest information on the subject from the Executive Department of the Government. A resolution of the Senate last month had asked the President to send copies of the correspondence on the subject, and the President had replied. on the 23d of May, that, in his judgment, it was incompatible with the public service to furnish copies of the correspondence, and that he was constrained to refrain from doing so. Mr. Morgan argued that the Senate was entitled, under the mandatory statute re-ferred to in the resolution, to request the Ferred to in the resolution, to request the President again to furnish the information asked for, and the President had no right under the statute to withhold the information. The Senate had a right to know whether American citizens had been tried by a Spanish tribunal: whether sentence of death had been passed upon them; whether the President had made a demand for their release, and what the reply to that demand had been. He did not want Congress to leave Washington with this matter in the hands of the President.

"I want to know," Mr. Morgan said, "from the President of the United States what the situation is before this Congress adjourns and goes home. Are we going to adjourn next Monday or Tuesday and leave these men in jall in Hayana? When we get this information from the President the Committee on Foreign Relations will know whether it is necessary to report to the Senate. It may turn out that the Spanish Government has receiled from its claim of right, or it may turn out that we will be humiliated by having the jurisdiction and power of the Spanish Government over our citizens reasserted, and that the Individuals who have been sentenced to death will have humbly to beg pardon of Spain. I do not know how it may turn out. I shall be very glad to have their lives saved in any way. At the same time I shall not feel very proud if their lives are saved by favor while we are asserting that the Spanish Government had no right to condemn them by military court, and that that court had no jurisdiction to any other Government the President would besitate for one moment to make a demand for the release of those prisoners, o, would nesitate to say that such Government had no present had no power to hold them in time of President again to furnish the information ment had no power to hold them in time of peace.

Continuing, Mr. Morgan said:

"In case these men are not speedily delivered, at the request of the President; in the event that they are not released within a reasonable time, he should be authorized to send his ships of war to Cuba, and there make war sufficient to demand and secure their release. But he cannot do that unless we authorize him. I wanted merely to present this subject to the attention of the Senate, and to inquire whether we are going away from here without getting the facts officially from the President, and without giving the President an opportunity to inform us whether he thinks it necessary for Congress to aid his power in order to obtain the release of these men. I think it is, Every day that these men are in prison under sentence of death is a day of dark and marked dishonor to the United States of America. We have got no right to sit here and have our citizens treated in that way."

Mr. Morgan was so earnest in expressing men. I think it is. Every day that these men are in prison under sentence of death is a day of dark and marked dishonor to the United States of America. We have got no right to sit here and have our citizens treated in that way."

Mr. Morgan was so earnest in expressing his views, and the matter itself was such a serious international one, that Mr. Sherman (Rep., O.). Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, suggested that the debareshould not be continued in open session. The galleries were accordingly cleared, the doors closed, and Mr. Morgan thished his speech in secret session. He spoke until the morning hour expired, and then, under the rules, the it cannot be taken without a majority vote of the Senate.

The Immigration bill was taken up with the understanding that a final vote should not be taken on it before Monday, as its most active opponent, Mr. Gibson (Dem., Md.) was absent on official duty as one of the visitors to the Annapolis Naval Academy.

A joint resolution for final adjournment on Monday next at 2 P. M. was offered by Mr. Aldrich (Rep., R. I.), and was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, after adverse remarks by Senators Allison (Rep., Ia.), Georgo (Dem., Miss.), and Warren (Rep., Wy.).

TRIAL OF THE PRISONERS.

Testimony Showing the Grossly Irregular Character of the Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, June 5 .- The testimony of Frederick W. Lawrence, taken before a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations on May 20, in regard to the situation in Cuba, was made public this afternoon, the Senate granting permission to Senator Morgan to have it printed as a part of of his remarks.

Mr. Lawrence, referring to the arrest and trial before the court martial of Alfred Laborde and Milton, who were on the Competitor, said that so far as the testimony of the men who captured them went, it showed that neither of the men had arms upon their persons. They were taken to Havana, tried by general court martial against the energetic protest of the Unuited States Consul-General, and condemned to death. From an American point of view these prisoners were not assisted by counsel, but from a Spanish American point of view these prisoners were not assisted by counsel, but from a Spanish point of view they had counsel. This counsel consisted of a Lieutenant in the navy, who asked no questions and who cross-examined no witnesses. No witnesses were produced except Capt. Butron and the other officers of the Mensajerra.

When asked if any evidence was given at the trial to show how far the Competitor was from the shore when captured, Mr. Lawrence said there was no evidence given, whatever on any subject. Neither the prosecution nor the counsel for the defence asked a single question of anybody. Not a particle of testimony was effered except that of the Spanish officers. An interpreter was present, but he did not make his presence known to the prisoners until they were asked if they had anything to say in their own defence.

Counsel for the Americans did not tell them what the statements of the Spanish officials contained; he did not, so far as witness heard, say one word to the men he was supposed to be defending. Witness had every reason to believe that the counsel could not speak English, for the whole trial was conducted in Spanish if they had anything to say. William dildea, the last of the five men tried together, replied to the interpreter:

"All I have got to say is that I do not under-

of the five men tried together, replied to the interpreter:

"All I have got to say is that I do not understand one word that has been said to-day, for me or against me, and at any rate I appeal to both the British and American Consuls."

The court made its finding within fifteen minutes after Gildea made this statement. Hefore the trial Gildea made this statement that he was a poor sailor and went on board the Competitor thinking she was bound for Sable Keys, fishing: that he knew nothing of the nature of the business until after it started. Laborde said that his ship had been nired to do fishing, but that he was held up by a revolver and ordered to go to Cubs.

Witness also saw Dygert, who was imprisoned at Guines with twenty-two others in a reom not larger than 16 by 18 feet. The food given him was execrable, and all the time he was confined he was not permitted a charge of clothes. Dygert was not released until one month after Marquis Palmerola told Lawrence that the Government knew he was innocent.

This was followed by the consideration of the report of Elections Committee No. 1 upon the contest of Rinaker against Downing, from the Sixteenth Illinois district, which had been sent back to the committee for a recount of the ballots. Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) unavailingly endeavored to secure a postponement, but failed. He did succeed, however, in consequence of a colloquy between himself and Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.), in bringing about the most violent and disorderly scene of this Congress, being declared out of order and compelled to take his seat by the Speaker protem, and certain runarks of his which could not be understood at the desk in the confusion being ordered stricken from the record.

—Gen. Rinaker's right to the seat was affirmed by a vote of 167 to 51—Messrs, Evans (Ky.), Moody (Mass.), and Sherman (N. Y.) voting with the Democrats in the negative—and he was also sworn in. This wiped out the Democratic membership in the Illinois delegation and reduced the Democratic strength in the House to 95.

The day began with a two-hour struggle over the adoption of a resolution introduced by Gen. Grosvenor (Rep., O.), calling upon the heads of the several executive departments for a statement in detail of all the removals and changes in their departments since March 4, 1803. The Democrate endeavored to have the scope of the resolution enlarged so as to include the changes made under the Harrison Administration, but failed.

That the party, individually and collectively, will royal send off goes without saying and the indications are that there will be a gather-ing on the pier at the foct of Vescy street such as has not been equalled since the athletic sons of old Eli started two summers ago to meet the champions of Oxford on track and field.

Then as now the element of uncertainty plays a prominent part, but patriotic Americans do not weigh chances with mathematical precision in such exceptional cases, and the stalwart New Haven boys will be sent on their way with as carnest and enthusiastic demonstration as if victory were assured. They will carry away with them the hearty good wishes of the American sporting community, and should they fail to achieve their ambition their admirers are already satisfied that what ever crew blocks the way to victory will know It has been in a race. The Yale men are trying at a distance much shorter than the route over which the Blue has earned its prestige. The contest, indeed, is more or less of an experiment, but, win or lose, the enterprise touches a warm spot in the hearts of America's

This summing up of the situation for coaching facilities at Henley finally left only one mode of action for "Bob" Cook, and a few nights are the managers of the navy legan to burn out cells on the transatiantle cable in their search for a horse. It had been decided that the only way to coach at Henley with any degree of comfort would be from Lorseback, and as "Bob" Cook's weight has increased quite a little since be graduated a good, big, strong horse, and in fact several horses will be necessary to complete Yale's fitting out of her Henley expedition. The managers of the navy have consequently notified Guy Nickails, the well-known English scaller, of their desires in this matter and given him authority to, if necessary, offer Uncle Sam's kingdom for a horse.

No change whatever has been made in the style of stroke that Vale will row to England as compared to that which she has rowed in past years at New London. The stroke will be quickened by several points, that is, the men will row from thirty-eight to forty strokes per minute, while in the races against Harvard they have not been accustomed to row above thirty-six and very often as low as thirty-four per minute. This quickening of the stroke has been made necessary, owing to the fact that the course at Henley is only one and three-eighths miles long.

The rowing transers are of white this year instead of blue, and instead of rowing with bare backs, as the men have been accustomed to at New Lendon, they will "do as the Remais do" and wear the naff-sheeve regulation English rowing shirt. The shirts will be of white flannel, with a plain blue "Y" on the breast.

New Haves, June 5. The departure of the Yale crew from this city was attended by a grand demonstration on the last of the stricted and the populace. Fully 1,500 students took part and 15,000 people in all were on the attreets. The crew was to leave the New Haven House at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

The students could not stop shouting and dancing, and they made so much noise that the strains of the band and the booming of giana crackers could scarcely be heard. At the depot the students were almost riotous. The minute those in the van of the procession got through the entrance way to the tracks they made a dash for some freight cars standing on a siding. They clambered upon the cars in all sorts of ways, some of them even climbing up on their fellows. Fully 900 students got on the cars and made a line hundreds of feet long. Then they cheered and shouted and fired off crackers to the consternation of the mass of people about. It was several minutes before the private car for the crew was backed up, and in the interim the students and the band kept up a continuous racket.

When the crew was ready to go the band struck up "Auld Lang Syne," and as the train slowly departed from the depot a mighty cheer went up from hundreds of throats, and the tribute was continued until the train turned the curve and was lost to view. The students were not alone in this homage of farewell.

The townspeople added largely to it, and even the employees about the depot joined in. One oid man employed as a wheel inspector raised high his torch as the train moved away and shouted so as to be heard above the din: "Me boys,

CONCERNING NIAGARA'S TANKS.

Council of the T. R. A. Wants to Know If LONDON, June 5.- The Field will publish a letter to-morrow from the Council of the Yacht Racing Association to Mr. Howard Gould, in-quiring if the yacht Niagara is fitted with tanks that are capable of being used for shifting that are capable of being used for shifting ballast.

The letter expresses the council's belief that the tanks are not used for that purpose, but suggests an alteration to prevent their possible use in this manner. The Field says it learns that Mr. Gould replied to the letter expressing himself as willing to adopt the suggestion of the council.

Mr. Gould has written to the Field with reference to an article published on May 30, denying that the tanks were used for the nurpose of shifting the Niagara's ballast, and showing that they could not be advantageously used for that purpose.

Bright Outlook for the A. A. U. Ring Champlonships.

The boxing and wrestling champlonships of the Amateur Athletic Union, to be decided at Mallson Square Jarden on June 15 and 17, are causing no end of excitement among the clubs of the union, particularly in New York, Philadelphia, and Pitta-burgh. Strong confingents of boxers and wrestlers are expected from several outlying eitles, and if the New York boys intend to held their own they will have to produce very good men as the Philadelphians are particularly sampline of carrying off the premiter honors. The New West Side A. C. Pastrone A. C. Clipper A.C. Clinton A.D., and the St. George A. C. have their best men in training, and, from the interest manifested there is no fould that Mailison Square traction will $2 taxed for its utimest to be omnedate the lowew of the manipart on the occasion.
